Who do Assistance Dogs Help?

Service Dogs, the core of SDI's founding mission, provide assistance to people who have physical disabilities and children with physical and mental disabilities. Hearing Dogs help those who are Deaf or hard of hearing. Court Room Dogs work with children who have been psychologically and sexually abused, helping them through forensic interviews and testifying. Psychiatric Service Dogs work with military veterans, first responders, and emergency medical technicians who suffer from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD).

But it costs approximately $15,000 to train a single Assistance Dog that is in service for an average of 8 years. At SDI's current facility, only 20 Assistance Dogs per year can be trained and placed because of space limitations. The waiting list for an Assistance Dogs currently ranges between 24-36 months.

Our New Facility Will Increase Support Dogs' Ability to Train & Place Assistance Dogs

- Increase by approximately three times our current square footage
- Provide housing for a maximum of 64 dogs at any one time
- Allow a gradual increase to 50 trained and placed dogs annually
- Expand TOUCH and Paws For Reading team training programs
- Employ cutting edge technology to assist with housing and training the dogs
- Feature office, meeting, education and event space, an on-site vet's office/exam room and an indoor play area
- Be built to exceed ADA standards
